Dr. Sutherland's Kidney Pad.
 A DISCOVERY BY ACCIDENT.
 Many years ago, a man named Sutherland, who had devoted years of study and experiment to the cure of kidney disease, discovered a remedy which cured him of his disease, and which he has since used with all cases of kidney disease, and which he has found to be a most reliable and effective remedy.

DISEASES OF THE KIDNEYS.
 The most prevalent, dangerous and fatal disease that afflicts mankind, and which is the cause of many deaths. It is a disease which is often overlooked, and which is often mistaken for other diseases. It is a disease which is often cured by the use of Dr. Sutherland's Kidney Pad.

THE ONLY CURE.
 We have the most reliable and effective remedy for the cure of kidney disease, and which is the only cure for this disease. It is a remedy which is often overlooked, and which is often mistaken for other diseases. It is a remedy which is often cured by the use of Dr. Sutherland's Kidney Pad.

IS STRONGLY ENDORSED.
 We have the most reliable and effective remedy for the cure of kidney disease, and which is the only cure for this disease. It is a remedy which is often overlooked, and which is often mistaken for other diseases. It is a remedy which is often cured by the use of Dr. Sutherland's Kidney Pad.

CAUTION.
 Beware of cheap imitations. The only reliable and effective remedy for the cure of kidney disease is Dr. Sutherland's Kidney Pad. It is a remedy which is often overlooked, and which is often mistaken for other diseases. It is a remedy which is often cured by the use of Dr. Sutherland's Kidney Pad.

HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS.
 Meets the requirements of the national medical philosophy which is at present prevalent. It is a perfectly pure vegetable remedy, embracing the three important properties of a preventive, a tonic, and an alterative. It fortifies the body, invigorates the system, and restores the normal condition of the stomach and liver, and effects a most salutary change in the entire system, which is a most reliable and effective remedy.

To Nervous Sufferers.
 It is a positive cure for Nervous Prostration, General Weakness, Impurity, and all diseases resulting from Sexual Abuse, or from the use of any other medicine. It is a remedy which is often overlooked, and which is often mistaken for other diseases. It is a remedy which is often cured by the use of Dr. Sutherland's Kidney Pad.

Price, 50 cents per bottle, or six packages for $2.50.

USEFUL AND SUGGESTIVE.

—If time has fallen into the eye, drop in some sweet oil.

Thorough tillage is the best and cheapest manure.

Ammonia should be used plentifully in house cleaning.

—In pruning roses cut away all shoots that have flowered.

Slow cooking and long cooking will make tough meat tender.

It takes no more to keep a good cow than a bad one. Always get the best.

—An old and good recipe for grafting wax: Two parts tallow, three parts resin and three parts beeswax.

—The best way to apply hen droppings to a garden is to sow it on broadcast and rake it in, mixed with a few barrels of ashes.

—Light soil is not suitable for currants. On such soil they are apt to drop their leaves early, which causes a poor crop the next season.

—Complexion Wash.—Tincture benzoin, two ounces; pure alcohol, one pint. Bathe the skin; allow the wash to remain on a few minutes and then wipe off with a clean cloth.

—The sitting hen needs feed and water once a day, or once in two days at the farthest. Sitters are sometimes shut up by themselves to keep others from disturbing them.

—Boston Cookies.—Two cups sugar, one cup butter, one cup milk, one egg and the yolk of another, one-third of a teaspoonful of saleratus and one teaspoonful of cream tartar. Mix still, roll thin, rub the white of one egg on the top, sprinkle on a little sugar.

—Bavarian Cream.—One pint of milk, three ounces sugar, half ounce gelatine, two eggs; beat the yolks and stir into the boiling milk, dissolve the gelatine in a little hot water; beat the whites of the eggs separate and stir in when cool; cream is better whipped; flavor to taste and then put in molds.

—To Take Stains out of Linen.—Place the stained spot in a tin pan; pour boiling water enough to entirely cover it; let it steep like you would tea or coffee, then rinse well, and hang it out of doors; iron the spot and it will not show. For fruit stains you must wash directly after pouring on the boiling water.

—Chocolate Layer Cake.—Two cups of sugar, one of butter, three cups of flour, five eggs, one cup of milk, one teaspoonful of cream of tartar, one half teaspoonful of soda; take nearly a cup of good chocolate, sweeten to taste, add milk enough to moisten—about half a cupful; flavor with vanilla and spread between the layers; ice.

—Delicious oatmeal gruel may be made by stirring a cupful of oatmeal into a bowl of water, allowing it to stand for a few moments until the coarsest particles have fallen to the bottom, pouring off the water and repeating this once or twice. The water must then be boiled, and the gruel constantly stirred, and then cooked.

—Queen's Pudding.—Three pints of milk, one quart of cream, the yolks of four eggs, one teaspoonful of vanilla; put the bread to soak in the milk, then add the eggs beaten, one-quarter pound of sugar; bake it when done. Beat the whites of five eggs to a stiff froth, add five ounces of sugar, put on the top and put in the oven for a few minutes.

—Omelet.—Break all your eggs in one dish; stir rather than lay the yolks and whites to catch live eggs; you use put in a teaspoonful of cold water; salt and pepper to taste; put two ounces of butter in the pan; when the butter is very hot pour in the eggs; just as soon as cooked on one side turn quickly and cook on the other side; double over and serve on a very hot plate. The cold water in the eggs makes the omelet light and moist.

—Rhubarb Jelly.—Prepare as for sauce, cutting up into small pieces. Put into a preserving kettle with a very little water. Boil until very soft. Drain through a sieve; then press through a jelly bag. To every pint of juice allow one and one-half pound of sugar. Boil the sugar by itself until nearly ready to form a curd, and then mix with the juice. Boil together moderately, keeping well skimmed until the jelly falls from the skimmer in sheets. Put away same as any other jelly.

—Remedy for Cracked Hands.—Get ten cents worth of Venice turpentine. Have it melted and put in a bottle. The last thing you do before going to bed, heat your bottle so it will run out. Now put a tin can lid on the stove and pour out enough to rub over your hands and feet. Then drop cool water in to it, not too hot, but thin enough to rub on easily. After you have rubbed, carefully apply clafed place, put on old gloves and go to bed. In the morning wash good with castile soap. Make it thin enough to wash off nicely. They will be better after the first application, and after the third they will be well.

—Folding Shirts.—Judging from the number of badly folded shirts I frequently see, as a correspondent, I can feel to believe that a large percentage of ladies are ignorant of the proper method; therefore a few words on the subject may not be amiss. I was taught to lay the garment, bosom down, upon the ironing-table, and with the right hand grasp the left sleeve, taking hold of the same side with the left hand; this part was to be folded back one-third the width of the shirt, measuring from the widest point. The sleeve must then be laid down, with its upper edge even with the recently made fold. The same process is repeated with the other side, and the bottom is folded until the hem reaches the neck-band. This is all very well as long as its owner remains at home, but should he attempt packing his shirts in a trunk or valise, the process would be very likely to become soiled. To avoid this, a friend I caught me to lay the shirt with the back upon the table and fold the bosom inside.

—The poorest way to cook pork cured in any manner is to boil it. Boiled ham is a favorite dish with most persons, but a ham first boiled and then baked till the surface is slightly browned is vastly superior. It is much better to broil ham than to fry it. To broil it perfectly it should be cut in slices scarcely thicker than the back of a carving-knife, and cooked over very hot coals. When much sugar is used in curing hams the meat will be dark-colored when it is broiled. On this account many prefer bacon that is cured with salt alone. Salt or pickled pork should also be cut in very thin slices when it is to be broiled or fried. It should be cooked till nearly all the fat is tried out of it and the meat is crisp and slightly browned on the surface. It should be served when hot and on a hot plate. If the fry-kettle is placed in a stove, instead of on the top of the stove, it will be cooked much better, as the rays of the heat will strike the upper as well as the under surface of the meat. The best rubs to use with fresh pork are sage and other garden herbs placed on the meat when it is being cooked. A dish of apple sauce should accompany a roast of pork. The best rubs to use with salt pork are horse-radish, some pickles, mustard, garden radishes and artichoke, cut up with vinegar.

—Thos. Benson, Lowell, Mass., writes: Your Spring Blossom cured me of Salt Rheum from which I have been a martyr for over ten years, my hands were almost useless and my face frightfully disfigured. I have used the Spring Blossom according to directions, and now am able to work and my face is now quite clear again. Sold by A. J. Roberts and Croft & Storrs.

The comparative profit of large and small farms is a question that will not stay settled. In a few cases the subdivision of labor and economy of system, tell favorably on returns, generally, however, the want of capital, opportunity for systematic effort, or little wastes and leakages make ambitious undertakings comparatively unprofitable. One advantage in the small farm system is the necessary appropriation of every source of income, the utilization of every capacity for production, and the employment of the labor of every member of the rural family. The French afford a good illustration of this idea. No fragment of time, no product of growth, no ray of sunshine or drop of rain is permitted to be lost. The care of the silkworm and the keeping of poultry are among these minor industries that afford employment to the extremes of youth and age. The comparative profit of small and large flocks of chickens only illustrates in an exaggerated fashion the difficulty in getting a profit out of big farms. One in a thousand will conduct poultry operations profitably on a large scale by observing with extreme care the conditions that made a small flock profitable. If the birds are allowed free range without crowding, pure air and water, and the needed variety of food, vegetable and animal, which is small flock raising, its voluntary circuit of the farm, they will be healthy and profitable. But, it is extremely difficult to fulfill all these conditions.

—N. Y. Tribune.

The ages of horned cattle may generally be known by the rings on the horns, and the length of the horns, and the time they give no indication of age further than that the animal has passed its tenth year. The first ring appears on the horn after the animal is two years old—soon after, as a general rule, though sometimes before that age. During the third year the ring gradually increases, and at three years of age it is completely formed. The second ring appears during the fourth year, and at the end of the fifth year it is complete. After that period an additional ring is formed each year. This rule is sufficiently plain, and even a young farmer needs but little practice to enable him to read a cow's age on her horns. A cow with three rings is six years old; with four rings she is seven years old. No new rings are formed after the fourth year; the coverings, however, and the worn appearance of the horns are pretty sure indications of old age.

—Farmers' Advocate.

Noway must be a sort of sportsman's paradise. Among the game which his gun can bring down are the tydder, roer, ryper and jerper, which are sufficiently outlandish to English ears. The tydder is the bird known of old in Scotland by the name of capercaillie. The cock is a noble bird, of the size of a turkey cock, with a bill and claws of great strength. The roer is the female, and in size, plumage, and appearance so different from the male, that it has received a different name. The ryper is the Scottish ptarmigan, but larger and better clothed. The jerper is a delicate bird for the table, of the grouse species, and about the size of a full-grown pigeon. Woodcocks are also abundant, and of delicious flavor.

A LITTLE 4-year-old boy was borrowed by the manager of the Elko (Nev.) Theater to personate the consumptive child of Lady Isabel in "East Lynne," in the touching death scene at the close of the act representing the wretched mother's return from her self-imposed exile. While the audience were being moved to tears by the impassioned agony of the fond mother, poured out at the bedside of her dying child, and just at the moment that she exclaimed, in broken-hearted accents, "He is dead!" the little chap, who had up to this point been kept quiet with difficulty, could stand it no longer, and instantly resented the accusation by exclaiming in a voice as steadily heard through the house: "I ain't dead, neither!"
